Home team now has a name

Prepare to root for the River Cats.

River City Baseball announced Monday that Elk Grove resident Mitch Talia had won a contest to name the new Triple A team, scheduled to begin play in West Sacramento in April. The team logo features a snarling wildcat clutching a baseball, sometimes paired with the top of the Tower Bridge and the words "Sacramento River Cats."

Talia's winning entry brings his family a free vacation to the Major League Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, New York. He will also throw a ceremonial first pitch at the team's home opener in April at Raley's Field, now being built on the West Sacramento riverfront.

The team name was chosen after extensive focus group research, including input from over 300 River City High School students.

"The name itself is an exciting identity for a team that represents the best in Triple-A baseball," River City Baseball CEO Art Savage said. "Like big cats, great baseball comes from players who are fast, powerful and agile."

Savage has purchased the former Vancouver Canadians to come to the Sacramento region as the River Cats. They will serve as the Oakland A's top farm team.

Mayor Cabaldon, again

Montemayor declines a chance at mayor's post; council unanimously reinstates Cabaldon for new one-year term

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

In a move that drew laudatory comments from both his fellow city councilmen and members of the public, Mark Montemayor declined a nomination to become the city's next one-year mayor last week, and then nominated incumbent mayor Christopher Cabaldon for another term. Montemayor's action paved the way for a unanimous vote to give Cabaldon another term as mayor, and to leave Montemayor in place as mayor pro tem.

Council member Bill Kristoff had quickly nominated Montemayor for the mayor's post when discussion on the annual selection process began, citing the city's "history" of rotating the mayor's post every year.

"I have some major issues like the port and sewage issues," responded Montemayor. "I'm very comfortable in my position right (as mayor pro tem) now. We are all properly suited in our positions now in the City of West Sacramento."

Montemayor thanked Kristoff for his support, but asked him to withdraw the nomination. At the same time, he nominated Cabaldon for another term.

There were no other nominations made, and Cabaldon was voted in as mayor for a second one-year term. It was the first time a West Sacramento mayor has served consecutive terms, although both Kristoff and fellow councilman Greg Potnick had served multiple, separated terms as the city's mayor.

> 'What I would like to see is someday we (the citizens) elect our own mayor.'
> Citizen Bill Resendez

"I don't think there's anything truer an individual can do than put their individual needs aside and put the community ahead," commented Potnick after the votes were over. "I've seen Mark tirelessly endeavor to move this community ahead. Mark, my hat is off to you for putting your own mayorship aside and continuing the momentum we have."

Cabaldon, who had earlier proposed that each mayor's term be changed from one year to two years, stressed that leadership was a "team effort by the council and the city staff."

"In this city, it's the staff that does the work, while the council provides the leadership. That sometimes gets lost in the issue of who holds the gavel," said Cabaldon.

Resident Bill Resendez worried that the move was a "precedent. . . that somebody would get behind somebody and they would try to hold on (to the mayor's post) another year. What I would like to see is someday we (the citizens) elect our own mayor."

Council member Jim Cahill expressed some surprise at the turn of events.

"I was prepared to support you despite some honest misgivings," he told Montemayor. "I think we heard from the public that a strong mayor is wanted. I don't believe this is a precedent. This is a unique situation we face this evening."

Believing that Cabaldon was making progress on regional issues including a new baseball stadium and sewage solutions, a number of citizens had for the past few months expressed a belief that the city should not "change horses midstream" by ending Cabaldon's term as scheduled by tradition this month.

The West Sacramento city council chooses a mayor and vice mayor annually in November from among its own ranks, but can remove them by a vote at any time.

Crash claims life of local man

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

A 72-year old West Sacramento man who had just driven through a police department "sobriety checkpoint" in good spirits was killed several blocks later when his car was broadsided by a driver believed to have been drinking. The accident occurred at about 8:30 p.m. on Saturday, and the other driver, 26-year old Craig Bennett of West Sacramento, was airlifted to UCD Medical Center with a broken leg and a severe cut on the head.

Radford Hammonds, described as "jolly, friendly and nice" based on his contact with Sgt. Dan Ruden of the West Sacramento Police Dept. just a few minutes before his death, was killed making a left turn into the Westwinds Mobile Home Park at 1399 Sacramento Ave.

"The elderly gentleman who was killed came through the checkpoint at Sacramento Ave. and Simon Terrace, and I talked to him briefly," said Ruden. "As he turned into his mobile home park, he was struck by an eastbound car driven by Craig Bennett. He hit the man broadside. Bennett is suspected of being under the influence."

Bennett's car had come from the opposite direction of the sobriety checkpoint (where police interview drivers and conduct field sobriety tests on those suspected of being under the influence), and did not pass through the checkpoint. But a witness had just previously reported that a white Dodge Daytona, similar to the one driven by Bennett, had been speeding at approximately 80 to 100 m.p.h. on Harbor Blvd. The witness then had lost sight of the speeding Daytona.

"The witness was brought to the scene of the accident and identified the car as the same one," said Ruden.

Police are still investigating the crime and are trying to determine if speeding was a factor.

Based on a look at the damage, said Ruden, the Daytona may well have been speeding. If so, he added, it would have been difficult for Hammonds to know it wasn't safe for his fatal, nighttime turn across traffic.

Bomb threat empties high school classes for afternoon

By Daryl Fisher
Features Editor

Last Wednesday, shortly before students at River City High School were scheduled to start their lunch hour, a handwritten bomb threat on the high school's letterhead was discovered on a bookshelf by two of teacher Cathy Costanza's students in her Leadership class.

"As soon as my students realized what it was," said Costanza, "they showed it to me. The letter said a bomb had been placed in the school and that it would explode at a specific time later in the school day. It also made reference to R.I.P. (rest in peace) and a number of other things which really upset my students and I immediately brought it to the attention of our principal."

"In situations like this," said River City Principal Mort Geivett, "we always want to err on the safe side and after the police and fire department had been notified, we began getting our students off the campus. Our teachers and our staff, and especially our students, did a really good job of making a very difficult situation go about as smoothly as possible."

Sergeant Derek Brummett of the West Sacramento Police Department helped supervise the evacuation and he said, "Many of the teachers helped us check their rooms and nothing suspicious was found. Although I don't believe there has ever been a bomb threat like this one at a West Sacramento school before, everybody took it seriously and that's definitely the right thing to do."

Shortly after the River City campus had been evacuated, a group of teachers compared the threatening letter to a written assignment by a potential suspect and they matched. Armed with that evidence, the police went to the home of the suspect, who is an 18-year-old student at the high school, and arrested him. He was charged with a felony, booked into jail, and will be recommended to the Board of Education for permanent expulsion from the River City Campus.

Washington Unified School District Superintendent Dr. Dennis Kelleher said, "I'm very pleased with the way the whole situation was handled. Considering all the tragic incidents which have happened in the recent past on school campuses throughout the nation, a bomb threat has to be taken very seriously and in this case it was. Everyone did what they were supposed to do, and that includes the on-site administrators, the police, the teachers, and especially the students."

$2,500 fire patrol boat radio stolen

Department reassessing whether to store boat 'ready' on the water

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

A firefighters' patrol boat operated by West Sacramento has been pulled from the water after being burglarized last week. It was the only such boat kept on the river in the Sacramento area for emergencies.

"It was broken into last year as well," reported Division Chief Jim Medich of the West Sacramento Fire Department. "It wasn't vandalized as badly as last time. They did pry open the wooden locker doors that lead into the bow. Last time, they threw the medical boxes out into the river."

Missing is the boat's 800 megahertz emergency radio communication system – which Medich said has no value to the thieves.

"The radio does them no good, because they cut it out. They don't have the plugs or ability to make it work. It's useless to whoever stole it, but it will cost us $2,500 to replace."

Service to the radio has also been shut down.

The burglary occurred at Raley's Landing in the city's northeastern area sometime between Thursday afternoon and Friday around noon.

Possible new Brown Act violation

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

The Washington Unified School District appears to have made another in a string of Brown Act errors, holding meetings of its elementary school boundary task force on Oct. 26 and Nov. 17 without the legally required posting and notice to the public. The mistake is similar to one reported earlier this month involving the district's facility advisory committee, which re-held a meeting because of such an oversight.

"I've asked for a legal opinion (on the school boundary committee meeting), and we will post from now on whether we have to or not," said Superintendent Dr. Dennis Kelleher. "If we violated on that (elementary school boundary task force meeting),

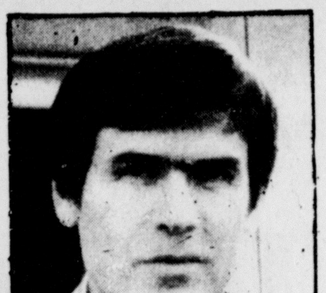
Suzie the Jumping Dog gets new leash on life

My Back Pages



By Daryl Fisher

A couple of Saturdays ago my twenty-something daughter dropped by the house for what at first appeared to be one of her much appreciated and harmless little visits.

"So, how's the new apartment going?" I finally asked her after she had chatted with her mother for awhile.

"Oh, I really love it," she said with conviction. "The best part is that it's only a few minutes away from work."

"That must be nice," I said.

"It's unbelievably quiet there, too."

"Quiet in an apartment building is definitely a good thing," I assured her.

"But I bet you can't guess what I've decided my little apartment needs?"

"A planter box?" I ventured.

"Guess again."

"Cable television?"

"Nope."

"I give up. What?"

"A puppy!"

To make a very long story short, within hours of my daughter's announcement, she had adopted a two-year old, 19-pound, four-ounce black female terrier-mix (her apartment lease requires all pets to weigh under 20-pounds) from the SPCA. She named it Suzie and she was quickly more attached to it than any of her previous boyfriends.

"Has Brandon (her roommate) signed off on all this?" I asked my daughter.

"Oh, sure," came the happy reply. "We're going to take turns walking her and bathing her and everything. The information they have on her at the SPCA said she's already potty-trained so there shouldn't be any problems at all. Isn't she cute!"

Early the next morning, shortly after the crack of dawn, I received a phone call from my frantic daughter informing me that her new love affair with Suzie was already on the ropes.

"What happened?" I asked sympathetically.

"Well, to begin with, Suzie's not potty-trained at all and last night she had accidents all over the apartment! I'm still gagging from cleaning up after her. Plus apparently she likes to jump up on everything and when I got up this morning the whole place was completely trashed. What was left of a loaf of bread was scattered everywhere, she had scratched the paint off one of the doors, and she even somehow got all the way up on top of the refrigerator and ate a whole cake!"

"Is that right?" I asked, trying not to laugh.

"Can I please bring her over to your house today and leave her out in the backyard for awhile until I can figure out what I'm going to do?"

"But Mikey (my dog) doesn't much like other dogs hanging out in his backyard," I quickly reminded my daughter.

"I know," she said, "but it'll just be for a couple of hours. Please?"

As it turned out, Mikey really enjoyed having a female companion around and although Suzie firmly turned away each and every one of his heartfelt romantic overtures, they got along just fine.

"I think Suzie just needs some time to adjust to apartment living," I assured my daughter.

"I had no idea a little dog like that could jump so high," she said in amazement. "I still can't believe she leaped all the way from the counter to the top of the refrigerator. She could have killed herself trying to do that."

"Maybe she just really likes cake?" I suggested.

"Suzie sure seems to like staying in the backyard and playing with Mikey," said my daughter with a 'why don't we just go ahead and make that a permanent arrangement' look in her eyes.

"Oh, no you don't," I quickly said. "Cleaning up after one dog is my limit. Plus your mother has already stated on numerous occasions that if I allow one more dog into this house she's out of here."

So I sent my daughter and Suzie back to their apartment with a Barbara Woodhouse No Bad Dogs book to study together and sure enough, within a few days Suzie had calmed down considerably and even learned to take an elevator all the way from the third floor down to a patch of good earth when she felt the need.

"Suzie's sure turning out to be a really great dog, Dad," my daughter happily informed me a few hours ago.

"Was there ever a doubt?"

Monument to Korea vets

A memorial honoring veterans of the "forgotten war" in Korea was dedicated in River Walk Park Nov. 20 by the West Sacramento City Council. The effort to establish a memorial was spearheaded by members of Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 8762 and American Legion Post 440 in West Sacramento. 54,246 U.S. service people were killed in the 1950-53 action, and an additional 8,177 taken as prisoners or listed as missing. A cease fire has remained in place since. Pictured are city council members Jim Cahill, (mayor) Christopher Cabaldon, Greg Potnick, (mayor pro tem) Mark Montemayor and Bill Kristoff. It's the "New 49ers". That's what the St. Louis Rams are saying about the boys from the bay after they beat the 49ers for the second time this season, 23-7. It's the first time since 1980 that the Rams have swept their two game series with the 49ers. Remember when the 49ers used to say, "It's the same old Rams" after their victories over the old rivals. The good news for the Niners was they scored their first touchdown in the month on November, while the bad news is they will host the Green Bay Packers next Monday night in front of a National TV audience.

The Oakland Raiders (5-5) hurt their chances at making the playoffs by losing a 27-21 heartbreaker on Monday night in Denver (4-7). They fell back into a tie with the Chiefs, their next opponent in Oakland on Sunday. The game is not sold-out so be prepared for another TV blackout. The Raiders are now three games behind division leading Seattle with six games to go.

My weekly picks are back to .500 (12 wins, 12 losses, 1 tie) with the Packers and Cardinals winning but I lost with the Raiders in overtime on Monday night. This will be short week with two games on Thanksgiving but I like the Bills (-4) at home against the Patriots and the Raiders (-4) will beat Kansas City in Oakland. On Monday night you have to take the Packers (6 ½) over the helpless 49ers. Can the 49ers lose their seventh game in a row?

How about the Stanford Cardinal heading to their first Rose Bowl since 1971. They should be a big underdog against Big Ten champion Wisconsin.

The UCD Aggies rolled to a first round 33-17 win over Central Oklahoma and now will host Northeastern State (Okla.) in the West Region championship game on Saturday, November 27 at Toomey Field. Sacramento State Hornets (6-5) finished the season with a 31-26 victory over Cal Poly to finish with a winning season for the first time since 1992. Junior running back Charles Roberts rushed for only 107 yards but became the first player in Division I-AA to rush for 2,000 yards in consecutive seasons. The 5-foot-6, 175-pound tailback, who finished the season with 2,074 yard, is talking about turning professional!

The Sacramento Kings (7-1) are on a roll beating up their opponents and leading the NBA in scoring averaging 106.8 points per game. If the Kings can win on Tuesday night against New Jersey it will mark the best start in franchise history. The Kings famous "Bench Mob" led by Jon Barry, Derrick Martin, Peja Stojakovic, Lawrence Funderburke and Scot Pollard are out playing their opponents reserves. The Kings will host their archrivals, the Golden State Warriors on Friday, November 26, then take a few day off before traveling to Florida for back-to-back game starting November 29th against Miami and Orlando. The long East Coast trip will then take them to Atlanta, Washington, and finish on December 6 in New Jersey. Season tickets are still available by calling (916) 928-3650. For single game tickets call any TicketMaster Outlet or visit the Arco Arena Box Office.

In the world of soccer the United States under-17 Boys soccer team advanced to the semifinals in the World Soccer Championships in New Zealand. The boys rallied from a goal down to beat Mexico 3-2. The U.S.A.'s victory sent big shock waves down south of the border! This team featuring, goalie D.J. Countess and Steve Cronin of Sacramento has gone undefeated (19-0-5) since August 1998. The under-17 team is part of the United States $40 million strategic plan to win the Men's World Cup by the year 2010.

Speaking of championships, the Sacramento Knights (17-5) are hosting the WISL semifinals against the Utah Freezz on Friday, December 3 at 7 p.m. at the Arco Arena. If the Knights win their first round game they will host the championship game on December 12 at the Arco. The playoffs open on Friday in Dallas (15-6) with the Sidekicks hosting Mexico's Monterrey La Raz (14-8). Tickets are priced from $9.50 to $21.50 and are available at the Arco Arena or by calling 928-3650.

News-Ledger Editorial

What's in a name; & continuity of the gavel

Forgive them the word "Sacramento."

Many West Sacramento residents, proud of both their identity and their status as host to the new RiverCats Triple-A baseball team, hoped for the words "West Sacramento" – or at least "River City," in front of the local baseball team's new moniker.

It was not to be. Team officials announced this week that it would be the "Sacramento" RiverCats.

While some locals will take this as a slap to their pride, they shouldn't. The baseball team is a regional team, and Sacramento is the core of this region. That's just a fact; local voters themselves realized this when they chose the name "West Sacramento" for their city during incorporation in 1986-87.

Most of the new team's fans will be from the east side of the river. West Sacramento could not, by itself, support such a team.

As for "River City," that's fine but completely unspecific. People from around the country have no way of knowing even what state the RiverCats hail from, let alone the city, based on that nickname.

So "Sacramento" it is.

But we've still got the stadium.

A consensus slowly developed to give Mayor Christopher Cabaldon another one-year term, and that, as was noted here some time ago, is a good thing.

Cabaldon has a healthy amount of momentum going on a number regional issues, including major sewage solutions and the future of the Port of Sacramento. This is a phase in West Sacramento's history at which these regional negotiations are on the front burner. Cabaldon should stay.

Montemayor deserves thanks for making the decision to keep Cabaldon a bloodless one.

But West Sacramento's rather shaky tradition of rotating the mayor's gavel from year to year has been dinged up a bit, and we can expect an increased amount of politics in future years during the annual selection of the mayor. That will be a fair price to pay.

The week in local government

The West Sacramento Redevelopment Agency will host a public hearing and workshop to consider adoption of a redevelopment agency five year plan, as required by Assembly Bill 1290, to include topics on project revenue, projected housing programs, and programs for eradication of blight. Both will be held in city council chambers, 2101 Stone Blvd., West Sacramento.

The workshop with the housing advisory committee and economic development advisory commission to review five-year implementation plan policies, projections and program will be held Monday, Dec. 6, at 6 p.m.

The city council public hearing and consideration of adoption of proposed plan will be held Wed., Dec. 15, at 7 p.m.

Both meetings will provide an opportunity for comments and questions.

Trustees of the Washington Unified School District will host a special meeting Monday, Nov. 29, at 7 p.m., to recognize committee members instrumental in the passage of Measure R. They will also consider adoption of a resolution acknowledging passage of the school bond measure. A community reception will be held immediately following the meeting, which will take place in city council chambers, 2101 Stone Blvd.

The board's next regular meeting will be held Thurs., Dec. 2, at 7 p.m. at River City High School.

Letters to the Editor

For sale, maybe...

By the time the News-Ledger is published, the staff of the Washington Unified School District will have taken down any signs which say "for sale" on any piece of property owned by the district. While an advising committee has recommended sale of the three sites inherited when W.U.S.D. annexed the West Sacramento District, the board has never passed a resolution to sell or lease. Such resolution requires seven steps, none of which have occurred.

Belief that the community wants to sell or otherwise divest the District of the property will not suffice. The board of education has not passed a resolution to sell and has not authorized the signs.

The board of education did add a step to the process for consideration which remedies any deficiencies in the process followed by the advisory committee -- questions on whether or not either of its two meetings had proper notice and the problems created by the factual errors in the May 15, 1998 "Long Range Plan for Facilities in the W.U.S.D." This process will not only provide the basis for facility planning for growth, but will, by widening the understanding of the history of the District, increase the participation of the public in the school system.

The Board of Education should have our cooperation and support when the hearings on use of facilities authorized Nov. 18 are held.

Please clear up the belief that the recent school bond election was the first such election since unification (1957). While this 1999 election was a vote of confidence unlike the last effort which failed, most of the present schools were built under the state aid program which required that the District be bonded to capacity to receive aid. The parents of the current leaders of the W.U.S.D. will remember that they voted for the taxes to pay for most of the schools our current leaders attended. They might not remember the details of the bond law then, but they know the W.U.S.D. had a series of successful bond elections before the 1999 election.

As if ranking thirteenth in science weren't bad enough, we placed fourteenth in math. Quite frankly, America's schools haven't kept pace with the rest of the world. Our standards are not high enough. Our teachers are undervalued. Our communities need to be more involved. But it's not too late to turn things around. In some places, it's already happening. WASHINGTON NEWS ITEMS

The Sacramento River registered three feet ten inches, United States gauge at the Southern Pacific bridge yesterday. This was a fall of about three feet since last week, but since a storm is brewing a sharp raise may be expected very soon again.

A depth of 500 feet was reached yesterday by the well borers in West Sacramento, but the work of going deeper will not stop although samples of water that have already been analyzed have proved up to be of first class character. The well will be bored to a depth of at least 700 feet and will be expected to furnish a supply of water for the township under the new management of McAnulty brothers.

Nothing of a definite character has been heard within the past two weeks of the absolute arrival of the McAnulty brothers. Those who seem to know are of the belief that none of the firm will show up until the deep well is completed or until water is secured for general distribution.

Before Judge Barry a civil case of much interest was up for judgment. John Lauer brought suit against an insurance company for $200 for loss he sustained in a fire last spring. Following the fire he accepted $150 from the insurance company to cover his loss, but subsequently found that to make complete repairs it would cost him $200 more. For this he made application but was refused. At the trial yesterday the insurance company was represented by Devlin & Devlin of Sacramento, and Lauer was represented by Romeo Hughes. Judge Barry took the case under advisement.

Turning customers away every night is the way Al Partridge expressed the condition of business in the West Side Auto Camp, near the Fifth street subway. Partridge believes that instead of a decrease in the winter months that there will be an increase in travel. He is forced to put up the bars every evening now at 6 p. m. or earlier, and has turned away as many as ten touring parties every night.

The West Sacramento Auto Camp is also enjoying an unprecedented prosperity; so much so that every cabin in the camp has been filled every night during the past week with no signs of abatement. Joe Pereira and wife with their boy, Fred, left here early yesterday for Oakland and Berkeley, where they will stay until after the big football game Saturday. They expect to be present at the game.

A. Cardoza was arrested in Bryte last Monday by Constable Buckingham on a charge of disturbing the peace. It seems that Constable Buckingham was looking after some places that were under quarantine on account of sickness and was enforcing the law as well as he knew how. The house was placarded also, but Cardoza paid no attention to that. Although warned by the constable that he should not enter the premises he told Buckingham that he would tell him all about it when he came out. Buckingham prevented him from entering the house and Cardoza became angry. He then assaulted the constable, who returned in kind, knocking him down, after which he offered his hands for the handcuffs. On appearing before Judge Barry on Tuesday the constable dealt lightly with him and he was only fined $25, after pleading guilty.

J. S. Hannah, wife and family are guests at the Seth Barry home on Fourth street from their home at Scio, Ore. They are on their way south and are taking in several localities where they may make a permanent home. Leaving here in a day or two they will go to petaluma, Oakland, San Francisco, San Jose and other points. Yesterday morning Mrs. Hannah was taken suddenly sick, presumably from something she had eaten or through indigestion.

Mrs. E. Newton left here last Wednesday to spend about two months in Alameda with her daughter, Mrs. Weatherbee. She is recuperating from an operation lately performed on her in a Sacramento hospital.

Mrs. M. J. Sherman is again at her home after having spent a week with relatives in San Jose.

Last Saturday morning Mrs. Arthur Bryan (Marie Thomas) of West Sacramento presented her husband with a nine-pound baby boy. This is the second child in the family and Bryan is a proud young man for having become the father of a big boy.

Lee Fiburg was arrested last Monday in the vicinity of the M street bridge for disturbing the peace. On complaint of Charles Weiss, Constable Buckingham placed him in the lockup but when Fiburg appeared before Judge Barry for sentence Weiss failed to prosecute.

Last Saturday forenoon a large truck load of milk was wrecked at the crossing at Fifth and Ann streets, when a Southern Pacific freight train hit a truck owned by A. N. Joseph, the local dairyman. One of the Joseph boys was driving the truck to Sacramento and estimated that he could easily get over the crossing before the train reached it. He miscalculated, with the result that the guard on the engine struck the rear wheels of the truck, demolishing them and scattering milk in cans to the four winds. With the exception to the damage to the truck and the tearing open of many milk cans no further damage was done.

BOOSTERS' CLUB MAY MAKE PROVISIONS FOR POOR

Before the war it was customary for the ladies of Washington to hold a donation day, but during the war and since that time no united effort has been made to restore the practice.

The idea of donation day is to gather spare clothing and other material that may be required during the cold of the winter and during the rainy season, so that older people and children who are destitute may, at least, be covered during the winter season.

To restore the practice the Booster's Club resolved last Tuesday evening to start a quiet investigation, so that if the practice is necessary it may be returned to help the poor and the destitute.

For that purpose a committee of three ladies was named to look into the necessity or the practicability of the custom and report back next Tuesday evening.

The ladies named on this committee are Mrs. Ray Peek, Mrs. E. J. Curry and Mrs. C. H. Painter. Complaint was heard at the Booster's Club last Tuesday evening that the broken culvert at Fourth and Harriet streets had not yet been placed in condition so as to permit the surface water to run off. As a consequence the basements of some homes in the neighborhood were flooded during the last rain.

The secretary of the Booster's Club, Mrs. H. Palm, was requested to write to Supervisor Beardslee drawing his attention to the condition of the culvert and ask him to have it replaced so that no further damage would be done.

The committee on incorporation reported last Tuesday evening that it had practically decided to postpone action until after the state highway commission constructs a permanent roadway through the town. In unincorporated towns, the highway commission completes the state highways but where incorporation has been completed that portion of the road within the city limits must be paved by the town incorporated.

ESPINOZA WILL BE TRIED FOR ASSAULT WITH DEADLY WEAPON

A. Fuller of Washington attempted an unique way of securing the arrest of the man he wanted in custody. Fuller picked a fight with the man in Sacramento Saturday with the result that he himself was arrested, later released and the man with whom he picked the fight, A. Espinoza, is now in the Yolo County jail at Woodland, charged with assault to commit murder.

The case will come up before the superior court in Woodland next Friday afternoon. Fuller charges that several months ago he found Espinoza in his home near Washington, attempting to steal foodstuffs and other articles. He claims Espinoza struck him on the head with a hatchet. He reported the matter to the authorities at that time, but Espinoza had fled from this district.

Half a billion dollars is being spent every year on foreign travel by Americans.

HEADS OF DRUG RING BELIEVED TO BE UNDER ARREST

Gun play and a wild chase through the jungles of Yolo County featured the roundup Thursday night by Detective Seargeant E. J. Cox and Detective Walter Nelson of three men and a woman suspected by the officers of being members of a ring of dope peddlers.

As a result of the arrests, Cox and Nelson confiscated several hundred dollars' worth of narcotics in an automobile and in a houseboat in Yolo County. The arrests follow an investigation of two weeks' duration.

Those arrested are:

Fred Wilkinson, said by Cox and Captain Max Fisher, chief of the police bureau of identification, to be an exconvict and suspected ringleader of the ring.

R. Rathburn, alleged dope addict and will also be investigated as a burglar suspect.

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Stone. Stone claims he is a logger and arrived at the boat house two nights ago from Marysville. His wife is 19 years old. They are held for investigation.

Wilkinson, the first to be arrested, was nabbed in an automobile in which he was sitting on Fifth street, J and K. Cox and Nelson discovered a large package, containing cocaine and morphine, concealed beneath the floor boards.

The officers then proceeded to the houseboat in Yolo County, where they found Rathburn and Stone and his wife. A complete search of the place brought to light two "plants" of cocaine and morphine. Another quantity of the forbidden narcotic was found concealed in the lining of a mackinaw belonging to Rathburn.

While the officers were searching the houseboat a man walked to it and was about to enter when he saw Cox and Nelson. He turned and fled.

Cox gave chase and when the fugitive refused to halt at his command he opened fire, shooting in the air to intimidate the fleeing man. The man escaped in the brush.

Captain Fisher and Cox say Wilkinson was sentenced to San Quentin from Sacramento on a grand larceny charge in 1916 for the theft of an automobile.

Rathburn is being investigated as a burglar suspect, as a result of the finding of a pass key in his possession.

It is believed by the officers Wilkinson was sitting in the machine awaiting a customer when he was arrested.

BAN PLACED ON ROLLED SOCKS FOR COURTLAND SCHOOL GIRLS

Courtland, Nov. 14.—An order was issued this week at the Courtland union high school by Miss Marifred Durant, instructor, in which it was announced that the girl students were not to wear rolled socks in the future.

Some of the girl students were heard to remark that they only possessed the kind that roll, so merchants will find a great demand in the days to come for the "long kind."

ALFALFA PAYS WELL WITHOUT IRRIGATION IN HOLLAND DISTRICT

Clarksburg, Nov. 21.—Averaging more than 10 tons to the acre, R. S. Harcourt reports a harvest of 147 tons of alfalfa from 14 acres of land in five cuttings on the Holland Land company tract, west of here. The yield this season is just six tons better than the yield last year. Both crops were grown without irrigation other than the natural subirrigation that prevails throughout a large part of the district.

CONDITION OF HENRY LEINBERGER, SR., STILL SERIOUS

Although still confined to his bed and partly delirious at times, Henry Leinberger, Sr., is holding his own as in comparison with the report made by the Independent last week. His relatives are of the impression that he may be able to get out again and attend to his affairs, but nevertheless are fully aware that his advanced age, 94 years, mitigates against him.

The pneumonia condition which injured him badly has mostly disappeared, but it left him in a very weakened condition. His appetite is also poor and his nurses find it difficult to force him to take the proper amount of nourishment.

Two nurses are in constant attendance on him and his physician never fails to make one or two visits each day.

SUPERVISOR BUCKINGHAM HAS SLIGHT ATTACK OF PNEUMONIA

ALASKA PACKERS CONSTRUCTING CAMP FOR MEN TO PLANT

On the western shore of Lake Washington the Alaska Packers Association is building a large camp to house about forty men who will be used in the near future in planting about 100 acres of pears in that location.

From the soil laboratory to the western shore of the lake and as nearly far north as the eastern end of the Yolo causeway a gravel road has been built by the association. This will be used for a great deal of hauling that is expected in that district.

Anyway the camp for the working men is being built and will be ready for use whenever a start is made in the planting of the trees.

It is barely possible that the orchard may not be set out this year because the particular kind of pear that is to be planted in the district may not be possible to secure.

Throughout the entire West Sacramento district farmers are taking advantage of the splendid condition of the soil to do their cultivating and seeding where grain is to be set out. Everything looks flourishing and the promise of a good season is cheering the hearts of all the farmers.

CONAWAY RANCH WILL PRODUCE 70,000 BAGS OF RICE

Rice growers of Yolo County are very well pleased with the results of their year's labors, now that it is harvested and out of the way. The crop was the most abundant that has been produced in this district since the rice industry was taken up here, and the selling price is the best since those received during the war, which will place the value of the crop in this county alone well into the millions.

For a time it was feared by many that the heavy and continued rains might interfere with the harvesting of the rice, or cause some injury to its quality. But the weather was the cause of only a slight inconvenience to the laborers, and perhaps a little added expense in getting the crop out of the fields. Some of the harvesting was completed as early as three weeks ago, while other growers did not complete their work until this last week.

George Cloud, manager of the Conaway ranch, states that their particular ranch has never handled such a crop as they have this year, nor ever received such prices. They began growing on the Conaway ranch in 1918. Their crop ran somewhat above thirty sacks to the acre this year, and they have a total of 2,200 acres on that ranch alone. That would make total production for the Conaway ranch something like 70,000 sacks or 7,000,000 pounds of rice.

The present prices paid for rice range above $3.50 per hundred pounds for the produce of this county. Many are getting as high as 20 cents above the standard price paid for the products of other districts, which have not as fine a quality as that of Yolo County.

The ladies of the W. C. T. U. are now going to issue censorships of only good pictures.

They might be expected to extend the censorship to booze also.

Every child deserves the best opportunities life has to offer. Especially yours.

Of course, the odds of her playing pro basketball are a long shot. But the chances are more than 1 in 4 that your baby isn't protected against childhood diseases like polio, measles, chicken pox, tetanus and others.

So, even if you're sure your child is up to date and on schedule with her baby shots, ask your doctor at every visit. It couldn't hurt.

In fact, it could give her a shot to be a star in any profession.
